Research Methods for Appraisers
Instructor: Deborah Zafman, AAA
Session 1: July 7, 9:30 a.m. – 12:30 p.m.
Session 2: July 7, 2:00 – 5:00 p.m.
Session 3: July 8, 9:30 a.m. – 12:30 p.m.

Students will learn the importance of proper research and methodology ("due diligence") in conducting appraisals. Equipment needed to properly examine items, as well as specific books and price guides to properly research items will be demonstrated. Libraries, museums, reference centers, and galleries will be discussed. Appropriate markets, market levels, regional markets, and valuation approaches will be examined. Students will be taught how to assimilate information to arrive at an appraised value. Examples of narrative analyses will be distributed. Real life appraisal problems will be addressed.

Photography
Instructor: Ed Yee, AAA
Date: July 7, 2:00 – 5:00 p.m.

This class will explore the primary criteria that influence the value of documentary and fine art photography. Upon completion you should have a better understanding of the overall medium, the differences between primary and secondary markets, a general understanding of major movements within the medium, and be able to provide basic justifications for the value of individual photographs.

Form and Ornament in the Decorative Arts
Instructor: Susan Hunter, AAA
Session 1: July 9, 9:30 a.m. – 12:30 p.m.
Session 2: July 9, 2:00 – 5:00 p.m.

This class will introduce students to the evolution of form and ornament in furniture, silver, ceramics, and other decorative arts from the late seventeenth to the early nineteenth centuries in Europe, Great Britain, and America. It will focus on how styles changed over time, but how they were often consistent across different countries and various media. With an understanding of style appraisers can take the first steps in identifying the age and origin of various types of decorative arts. Additionally, students will have the opportunity to examine the differences between period works and antique or modern revivals and reproductions.

Instructor: Lark Mason, AAA
Session 1: July 21, 9:30 a.m. – 12:30 p.m.
Session 2: July 21, 2:00 – 5:00 p.m.

Auctions are a critically important part of the art market. Sales are public and reflect the strength or weakness of a particular area and provide for the appraiser a record of sales and unsold items that are essential for appraisals. The course covers history of auctions, format, and legal and technical issues that are essential to understand for all auction participants. We examine terminology, guarantees, lot headings and cataloging. Auction laws differ by state and municipality and the conditions of sale and consignor contracts differ between auction companies. We examine all aspects of the bidding and consignment processes and end with a mock-auction. The participant will leave with a solid understanding of all aspects of the art auction business.

Learn the basics of appraising household contents, including fine art, furniture, silver, porcelain, rugs, antiques, and other collectibles. Acquire the techniques and skills necessary to become a general appraiser, and learn when and where to hire a specialist.

The Fine Art of Printmaking
Instructor: Robin Starr
Session 1: July 24, 9:30 a.m. – 12:30 p.m.
Session 2: July 24, 2:00 – 5:00 p.m.

The morning session introduces the recognition and identification of basic print-making techniques. These include engraving, etching, woodcut, aquatint, lithography, and serigraphy found in European and American printmaking. Problems in identifying and understanding print media will be addressed through examples of each method by artists closely associated with each technique. The broad range of effects that can be achieved with each technique will be demonstrated by examining a spectrum of works from various periods and times in each technique. Print terminology used in books, catalogues, and in auction sales will be defined and used throughout both sessions. The afternoon session examines the breadth of fakes and forgeries in the print market. This will build on the morning’s lessons and delve more deeply into examining prints using specific examples of fakes and comparing them to their genuine counterparts. The tools that experts use to discover fakes will be discussed and applied, to teach how appraisers can avoid being tricked.

Conservation of the Fine Arts

Instructor: Jennifer Mass, Ph.D.
Date: July 28, 2:00 – 5:00 p.m.

This course will explore the fundamental structures and properties of the materials used to construct the decorative environment. The objects that make up this environment are engineered to have optical properties and textures that produce a range of effects including rich colors, gloss, iridescence, and opacity. As these objects age, their surfaces are vulnerable to interaction with agents of deterioration from the environment such as water, oxygen, carbon dioxide, sulfur dioxide pollution and even the salts from our hands. To understand the original function of a decorative environment, it is necessary then to understand how its component objects have changed over time. This can only be accomplished through an understanding of the materials from which the objects were originally constructed. This course will be an overview of the decorative environment from faux furniture finishes to prized objects of vertu
